Joan Baez school permit is upheld by Supervisors 3-2 vote against appeal

Supervisors Atteridge, Church and Hudson voted to deny the appeal while Henry and Anderson voted in favor of it and against the school permit.

Robert J. Pia, Salinas attorney representing the opposition based his case on Sect. 32 C of the zoning ordinance. High point of his case, backed by realtors Larry Cummings and Skip Marquard was that establishment of the school was detrimental to property values and would destroy the favorable image of the Valley. Sue and Gerry Petkus, adjacent property owners, objected on grounds of invasion of privacy and congestion on the road.

Attorney William K. Stewart for Miss Baez said "the conception of public image as a basis for denial is based on opinion not fact."

Marguerite Grundig, a neighbor of Miss Baez, reported a maximum of five cars and in reference to property owner's rights stated "she would far prefer Miss Baez and her school adjacent than the recently accepted Diamond N. subdivision."

A series of conditions imposed on the permit limited school operation to the five weekdays between 8 a.m. and 6 p.m., no more than 20 students, indoor classes, parking within property gates and expiration on October 27, 1966.

Miss Baez hoped to reopen classes on December 18, but this falls on a now illegal Saturday, so the date is not set.

Experts to air proposed Slope Density Formula at CVPOA meeting next Wednesday evening

The Carmel Valley Property Owners Association will hold its last quarterly meeting of 1965 December 8th at 8 p.m. in the multi-purpose room of the Tularcitos School.

The highlight, according to CVPOA president Col. St. E. P. Tyner, USA (Ret), will be a presentation by George C. Mader of William Spangle and Associates and Ed DeMars, director of planning for Monterey county, on the Slope Density Formula proposed to set guide lines for future development in the Valley. County officials have been invited to attend.

RESULTS OF LONG STUDY
The need for a definite Slope Density formula to govern development of the hillsides was spotlighted by the bitter hearings on the Alcan Pacific Development, Del Mesa Carmel now being commenced, Col. Tyner said. "The Board of Supervisors approved an arbitrary total of 295 units, which was greatly in excess of the total number of units recommended by the County Planning Staff," he said. Later, certain conditions were imposed which did give the County a valuable 15-acre parcel of land from the developer.

Colonel George Brown, then CVPOA president, appointed a committee to study the question of slope density. CVPOA then asked the County to employ a reputable firm to make a professional study and William Spangle and Associates, regional planners, of Menlo Park was chosen. The work has now been completed and has been reviewed by the County Planning Commission as well as by CVPOA, which has approved the formula (Method II) proposed by Spangle and recommended it be enacted into Ordinance.

'LOCK THE BARN

"The urgent problem," continued Tyner, "is to insist now that guide-lines be established which will give the Valley protection against would-be devastators....a set of guidelines we can live with." He went on to say that recent approval of the Diamond 'N' subdivision was "an example of too little and too late." "Although residents of Los Ranchitos protested, under the present zoning and the minimum lot sizes proposed by the Carmel Valley master plan, the planning commission had no legal grounds for denying the application," he said.

"The developments in the Valley which we so deplore were made possible by the lack of unity among Valley residents. Those who would make this beautiful area just another piece of real estate have been quick to seize every opportunity to foster internal dissension...to divide and conquer as it were. That is the reason for our campaign to make every Valley property owner and resident a member of CVPOA. In that way and only in that way can we be assured of presenting a united Valley front on these problems. Our membership is well on its way to reach the 500 mark and we intend that this is just a start. Until every resident is a member, we shall concentrate on at least arousing every resident to work with us for the common good."

"We have no wish to 'speak with the dead' by raking up old problems. Let us go forward from this day toward accomplishing what must be done."

SAN CARLOS PLAN LAUDED

"There are those who say we need no formulas. We feel otherwise. Some contend that slope density formulas would encourage the cutting up of our beautiful hillsides. The proof of the pudding," Tyner said, "is in the eating and I find the newly announced plans for the eventual development of the Rancho San Carlos to be mighty palatable. This plan, which gives new meaning to the overworked phrase 'sensitive land treatment,' is based on a slope density formula and was created by Riches Research Incorporated."

JOAN BAEZ (center) thanks Kathy and Don Minor for their support after yesterday's appeal hearing. Don told the Board of Supervisors that he felt "the Valley would be in the shadow of intellectual death" if the appeal were not denied. (Outlook staff photo)

Carmel Valley day at PlanCom

Varied verdicts

A day filled with Carmel Valley matters resulted in several denials, a continuance and the balance in approvals at the November 24 Planning Commission meeting.

An application for rezoning for apartments of 75 acrea south of the Carmel Middle School was denied August Nieto, who had requested a continuance by letter, and was not present when the decision was rendered. The continuance was first denied and then the zoning request.

The opposition to the request was led by Col St. E. P. Tyner, representing the CVPOA and the Carmel Knolls Property Owners Association. The request for denial was based on the inadvisability of having apartment zoning allowed at all in the area, which is classified as residential. Tyner pressed for an immediate denial on this basis rather than continuing the matter further.

Subdivision OKed

In opening arguments for approval of the Los Laureles Hill subdivision by the Planning Commission last Wednesday, Myron Etienne, attorney for the developer called the past year since the filing a "lesson in frustration."

Recalling the various continuances, he said that a subdivider should be able to rely on rules and in this case, the plan complied with the Carmel Valley Master Plan of one acre minimum and had met road department and sanitation requirements. Therefore, he said there was no reason why the plan should not be approved.

After hearing arguments for and against it, the Planning Commission voted approval of the development of 43 lots on 66 acres, subject to 17 different conditions which included the subdivider paying one half of the cost of improving Miramonte Road between its intersection with Valley Road and where it approached the development.

Douglas Bradburn, a resident of Los Ranchitos, spoke in opposition to the subdivision, stating that he had the authority to represent 15 different owners of property. Mr. Bradburn told ments and 18 hole golf course, pro-shop and accessory buildings, were General J. H. Phillips, Harry Ninde of the Rancho Rio Vista Property Owners and John Harms representing the Val Verde area.

Another denial decision was rendered against Robert Adkins of Granite Construction Company for the removal of 70,000 tons or 45,000 yards of natural material from the Carmel River.

Mike Johnson speaking for the Fish and Game Department stated that such removal from the Morse Ranch river bed would endanger an important steelhead spawning area. He stated that gravel operations further downstream had already ruined several other spawning holes and, according to historical data, steelhead formerly spawned clear to the mouth of the river. Commissioner Ed Marcucci also expressed tremendous concern over the conservation of fishing areas and stated he would not vote in favor of further gravel removal. The commission unanimously voted denial and suggested that the natural materials for the construction of the Rancho Fiesta Roads be brought from existing gravel sites further down the river.

Renewal permits for pan-handle lots in La Rancheria were granted to F. M. Landsdowne and Duane Sandgren.

Use permits were also granted for the two ballet studios currently in operation on Del Fino Place. The Angene Feves Studio on the second floor was approved subject to building code regulations and the White Oaks Dancing Academy request for the space immediately below was also granted. In jest, both studios offered free ballet lessons to Valley PlanCom member Ed Marcucci.

additional building, to house a veterinary hospital was granted to Dr. Gerry Petkus, subject to several restrictions. These included installation of a 2,500 gallon septic tank and 900 feet of drainfield, dedication of ten feet of space for future road widening and the improvement of Center Street

Fred Horne's request for rezoning of his property on Chaparral Road was continued until January 26.

The Outlook after the meeting that since most of the properties are jointly owned, the persons represented actually numbered about thirty.

Signers of a protest against the development were Mmes. and Mssrs. Fred Capen, O. M. Pick, Mark Starr, Donald McKenzie, Bill Mallek, Derek Rayne, Ballard White, Admiral and Mrs. A. G. Robinson, Mrs. Gabrielle Kuster and Mrs. Barbara Haber. He said he also had the verbal right to represent Mr. and Mrs. Frank Crispo who were vacationing in Arizona, Mr. and Mrs. William Froli who live in Pomona, Mr. and Mrs. Wesby Parker, who live in Dallas, Texas, Mr. and Mrs. Clive Rayne and Mr. Bradburn and his wife.

He stated that it certainly was a distinct possibility that the decision would be appealed to the Board of Supervisors.

Mr. Bradburn argued before the Commission that the subdivision would create tremendous traffic problems since there were twice as many lots proposed as are now in all of Los Ranchitos and homeowners would be using Miramonte Road and Encina Drive as access to the property. He felt it would result in a 160% increase.

Drainage problems would be increased, he said, with 43 houses plus roads taking away much run-off area. The natural drainage canyon runs directly to the Carmel Valley Road, he added.

As a final point, Mr. Bradburn brought to light a private deed restriction stemming from the earlier owners of the property restricting building within 200 feet from the S. E. boundary of the land, which originally included 424 acres.

The other property owners, Mrs. Elizabeth Palms, who owns four acres immediately adjoining the subdivision acreage, and Mark Fields, who also has adjoining acreage spoke in favor of approving the plan.

Mr. Fields told the Planning Commission, "I feel it will enhance the property. It most certainly will enhance the value of my property."

Attorney Myron Etienne, representing the developer, said that while his client was aware of this private deed restriction, he did not feel it was enforceable and was a matter for court litigation. Roy Anderson, the deputy county counsel, agreed.

In granting the approval, the Commission members said that the applicant had complied with the Carmel Valley master plan of minimum one acre building sites.

Going on record as the lone dissenting vote from the Upper Valley Advisory Board against approval, Mrs. Corene Smith had written that the subdivision was legal, but since the widening of the Valley Road was rejected, she wished to protest any further subdivisions until the slope density formula was decided.

Year's separation facing young couple as he goes to South Pole, she to Chile

A full year's separation faces a young couple, Vern and Sandy Peckham, who have just left for the other side of the world. She will pause in Chile while he continues on to the Antarctic. Sandy is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lou Gardner of Carmel Valley; Vern, her husband, is from Oakland.

It took a lot of heart-to-heart meditation to reach this difficult decision to be separated for so long, but he hopes to earn and save enough as a scientist in the South Pole region to continue with graduate work to earn his PhD.

Sandy, who graduated last spring as a Spanish major from the University of California at Santa Barbara, hopes to get a job teaching young children, probably English, in a Chilean school.

She has been doing translating from English to Spanish for a Chilean instructor at the University.

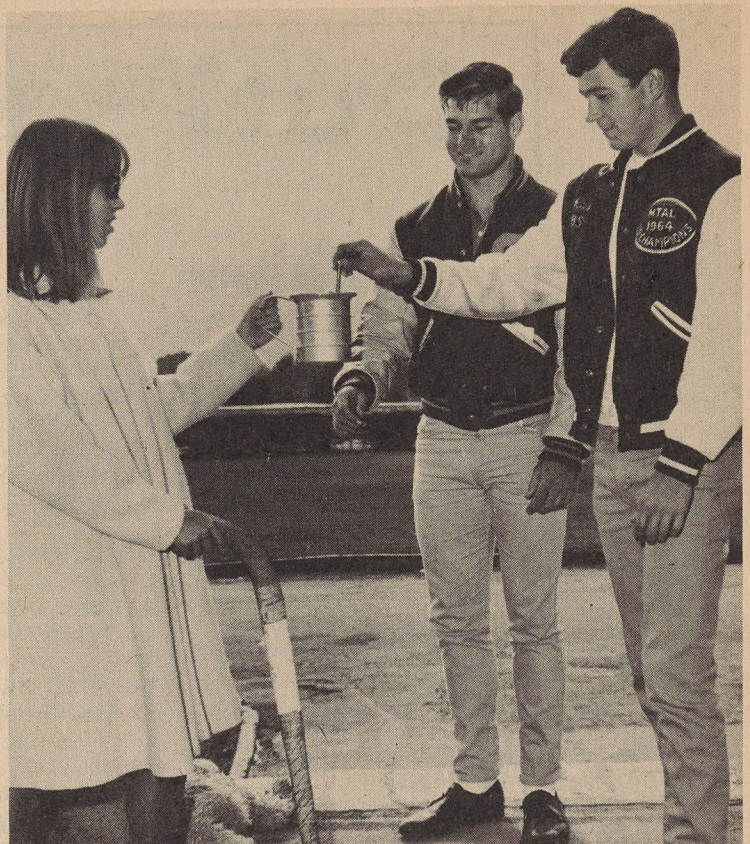

Vern, who is also a graduate of UC at Santa Barbara, will board a U.S. Coast Guard cutter at Valpariso, Chile, for the trip to the Antarctic. He is scheduled to spend a year studying entomology at a remote base for a few scientists.

Vern is already a veteran of the South Pole region; four years ago he spent a year there, as a marine biologist. This was at a larger base than his present assignment.

At that time, Sandy waited for him in New Zealand, attending college there.

Vern's year this time is being sponsored by the National Science Foundation and the Bishop Museum of Honolulu. Included is a scholarship at the University of Hawaii to earn his master's degree when they return.

The couple went by bus to Mexico City and are flying from there to Santiago, Chile. On the way down the West coast of South America, they expect to visit another Carmel Valleyite, Warren Roberts, son of Mr. and Mrs. Don Roberts, who is a Peace Corpsman in Peru.

SALES OF THE CARMEL HIGH yearbook, "El Padre," are down over last year so Editor Carol Botten resorted to selling pencils to publicize the spot they're in. Roger Folden and Rick Piper, fellow Carmel High students, offered to buy pencils, but we think she really wants subscriptions to El Padre instead!

Kitty going by air to Chile

"Baby" is about to become one of the world's best traveled cats. The fond pet of Sandy Peckham, he will shortly be airfreighted to Santiago, Chile, to help keep her company there when her husband Vern leaves for the South Pole for a year.

"Baby" temporarily is the responsibility of Mr. and Mrs. Lou Gardner, Sandy's parents. Sandy left them a check for $50 for the freight bill, plus a Chilean animal passport for the cat and various medical documents required.

"It was more trouble getting all the documents for 'Baby' than for themselves," said Mrs. Gardner.

"It's just a grey tabby cat, about three years old," commented Lou. "Most people wouldn't walk across the street for it, but then everybody has different values."

CV Village to become 'Story Book Land' for Christmas season

Christmas-season is going to be something extra special in Carmel Valley Village, which is going to be transformed into "Story Book Village."

Mrs. Les (Henriette of Henriette's Interiors) Jewett, chairman of the CV Chamber of Commerce Christmas committee, disclosed big plans at the Chamber's meeting Wednesday for making this a memorable Yule time for the Village.

Thirty Christmas trees are being contributed by Paul Porter. They are being sprayed sparkling white at the fire house, and are to be set up about the Village. They are being decorated with 1,500 red-ribbon bows.

Two large banners are going up over Carmel Valley Rd. at either end of the Village, announcing its transformation into "Story Book Land." Betty Antoncich made the patterns for the lettering for the banners.

The most exciting day of all will be next Saturday, Dec. 4 when Santa Claus himself is scheduled to be flown in at the local air strip at 2 p.m. by Dick Thornberg. Santa will ride to town on a local fire engine, and a big parade is scheduled to add to the excitement, including riders from the CV Horsemen's Association and the Trail and Saddle Club. Santa will preside, courtesy of the Kiwanis Club, daily in the Village from 1 p.m.

Another outstanding feature will be the personal appearance about town of six famous story-book characters, courtesy of the CV Lionettes. Some of its members will be livening up the Village in costumes of Raggedy Anne and Raggedy Andy, the March Hare, Hans Brinker, Peter Rabbit, Mother Goose and Toy Soldier.

The Village is also to be decorated with large candy canes, about 50 feet apart. Streets will have colorful new signs, renaming them with charming "Story Book Land" names.

Mrs. Jewett urged all children to help assume the responsibility for being sure the beautiful new decorations are protected. "They're yours, children," she said. "So help us keep them beautiful and they'll last us all for years."

Local business establishments are expected to blossom out with special Christmas decorations this year, because the Chamber is offering three prizes for the best displays. First prize is for two dinners at Wills Fargo restaurant, second is $15 in trade at Henriette's Interiors, and third is a free membership in the Chamber.

Prizes to be given away to children during the Christmas season include 10 tickets to the Dec. 5 performance of "Puss in Boots" at White Oaks Theatre and two tickets to "Miracle of 34th Street" at Tantamount Theatre Dec. 10 and 11.

Other Christmas committee members aiding Henriette Jewett, include Dean Diaz, Jean Klech, Marie Tedrow, Honey Lundin and Helen Nessel.

Banker Tom Hefling chosen president of Chamber of Commerce

Tom Hefling, manager of the Carmel Valley branch of the Bank of America, was elected president of Carmel Valley Chamber of Commerce at a directors' meeting Wednesday noon at Las Laureles Lodge.

Other new officers chosen are Ken VanHagen of the CV General Store, first vice president and Mrs. Les (Henriette) Jewett of Henriette's Interiors, second vice president. Re-elected were Tom Verga, treasurer and Lori Swiss of Sugar 'N Spice, secretary.

Retiring president is Rex White of Prince's Camp.

He named the following committee to handle installation of new officers in January: Dr. Ed Marcucci, Lou Gardner, Paul Porter, Lou Allaire, Mrs. Swiss and Verga.

TOM HEFLING new Chamber of Commerce President.

The Chamber approved, following the suggestion of a committee of Porter and Gardner, the Carmel Valley Outlook's bid for new CV brochures. It is for 12,500 brochures, 9x12" with eight four-color photos, for $965. The Chamber is furnishing the color photos taken by local photographers.

For lack of a Scoutmaster, the Chamber-sponsored Boy Scout Troop No. 140 is petering out, Chamber Director Lou Wolters revealed. He said that no replacement has been found to replace retiring Scoutmaster Frank Preve to take charge of the troop which has included boys from the lower part of the Valley.

Wolters said that a fine place is available for the troop to meet; Milt Frumppkin has offered use of Saddle Mountain Ranch facilities for the troop.

"The troop is dead if we don't find a new leader," Wolters declared. Any volunteers are urged to contact the Chamber.

Gardner and Hefling were appointed a committee to revise and up-date the Chamber's by-laws. New by-laws will be submitted to the board and membership for approval.

Classic puppet show of 'Alice in Wonderland'

Adults and children alike continually rediscover the delight of Lewis Carroll's "Alice in Wonderland." In honor of the book's 100th publication year, a magnificent puppet production of Alice's Adventures and Through the Looking Glass is planned at the Tantomount Theatre on Sunday, December 5 at 3 p.m.

QUIVERING with fright, Mouse swims away from Alice and her talk of cats as they splash in the pool of tears.

Puppeteers and theatre owners, Ralph Geddis and Francois Martin have achieved national fame with their performances of the classic story. Although Alice has been played by any number of famous actresses, they say the current performance by Carmel Valley's Angene Feves is extraordinary. The rest of the voices in the story are done by Geddis and Martin while stage manager Audrey Cordrey and assistant Jeanne Rutledge don puppets occasionally for crowd scenes such as the Mad Hatter's Tea Party.

The handmade puppets, which measure about two feet in height, were carved and costumed by Geddis and Martin from the original drawings by John Tenniel which are in the Widener Library of Harvard University. They are masterpieces of authenticity, both in expression and coloring.

Only the one performance of "Alice" will be given before the Christmas Holidays. The six persons working on the production have been on an intensive rehearsal schedule to ready this special treat during its anniversary year, 1965.

Clan to gather at Highlands Inn

A Scottish Christmas tree and the traditional festivities of "Decorating Night" are planned by the Highlands Inn, Carmel, for Friday, December 10, at 8 p.m. Everyone is invited to join in the traditional trimming

Each guest brings a "Scottish" decoration, which he has made or "borrowed" from his own collection, and hangs it on a branch.

Realtors to bring Dr. Allen Temko for lecture here

Dr. Allen Temko, nationally known expert on architecture and urban affairs, will give a lecture on development problems of the Monterey Peninsula area Wednesday Dec. 8 at 8 p.m. at Sunset Auditorium, Carmel.

The talk, which is open to the public without charge, is being sponsored as a service by the Carmel Board of Realtors, Pres. George T. Conn announced.

"Dr. Temko will discuss some of the problems with which our area will have to cope in the face of the coming tremendous growth and changes in our environment," Pres. Conn said.

The speaker is a member of the Center for Planning and Development at the University of California at Berkeley and the architectural editor for the San Francisco Chronicle.

Mr. Jack Aranson and Mary Rose McMaster in Shakespeare's "All the World's a Stage" will be the program scheduled for the General Meeting of the Carmel Woman's Club on December 6 at 2 p.m. at their clubhouse.

Married to each other and the parents of four children, they have an extensive theatrical background. Both have participated in the Dublin Theatre Festival in Ireland and Mr. Aranson has worked with such talented actors as Siobhan McKenna and Orsen Welles. He trained with the London Old Vic Theatre for two years and his wife, Mary Rose McMaster, made her debut at the Abbey Theatre at the tender age of two, in the arms of Mrs. Patrick Campbell. She later joined her father's Shakespearean touring company. Mr. Aranson and his company are presently appearing in San Francisco's newest theatrical group, "The City Theatre."

Assisting the Hospitality Chairman, Mrs. Dudley Miles, will be Mrs. J. C. Hale, Mrs. Paul K. Theobald, Mrs. D. W. Hunsacker, Mrs. Willard Ladd, and Mrs. Alexander Daly.

Mrs. Wallace Lowery, Mrs. A.F. Svantesson, Mrs. James Dixon and Mrs. Carl Rasmussen will preside at the tea tables following the meeting.

Xmas exhibit at Art Association

A special Christmas exhibition of paintings will occupy the entire Carmel Art Association Gallery, on Dolores Street, until January 6. Opening tomorrow, this is the association's only unjuried show during the year.

Katherine Aurner, chairman of the hanging committee, was assisted by Joe Feuerborn, Jesse MacGregor, Robert Davey, Betty Harrington, Gene Elmore, and Harvey Higley.

"Tremendous community support is needed for Carmel Valley's Children's House," So said Dr. Gene England, director of the affiliated Monterey Institute for Speech and Hearing, to Carmel Valley Kiwanis Club Wednesday at Las Laureles Lodge.

He stressed the importance of additional local support with volunteers and finances, to keep the unique school functioning and growing.

Dr. England praised the Byford Fords for their leadership and devotion in establishing and operating the local agency, which is dedicated to helping brain-damaged children. "We are all extremely proud of what the Fords, and Mrs. Ford in particular, has done," he declared.

He praised the 12 faithful volunteers who help carry out the program, which has gained recognition as outstanding in its field in the West.

The school took a major step forward this year with employment of its first full-time staff member, Miss Elizabeth McCall, a professional speech and language expert with a master's degree from the University of Iowa.

In addition, two staff members from Dr. England's staff volunteer to assist twice a week at Children's House. He added praise for their help: from Dr. Burl Gray, Dr. Darrell Rose, Miss Mary Krietz and Miss Mary Ann Conn.

ONLY SIX STUDENTS

Only six young children at a time are students at Children's House. They are worked with individually from 9 a.m. to 12 noon. The building on Via Contenta is arranged with eight booths for individual work around a central classroom.

Explaining that the children are not mentally retarded, Dr. England said they have to be taught language communication. "Some of them have high IQs, but they have to learn to organize themselves to be able to use it," he said.

It is physically impossible at first for a brain-damaged child to shut out ordinary sights and sounds, to concentrate on one, he explained. At first they are wild and go-go-go all day long, wearing themselves out, he added.

SOME TO COLLEGE

After being worked with alone, two children are brought together. Eventually, all six can be together and the aim is for the children to be able to communicate in a group. Then the goal is for them to be able to attend kindergarten and school. "Some go on to college," Dr. England said.

The local Children's House is now being directly assisted by Monterey Institute of Speech and Hearing, which is a Community Chest agency and which Dr. England heads.

Organized by six community leaders last fall, the Institute formally opened in June 1965. An average of 175 patients now are handled weekly, from small babies whose parents wonder about their hearing ability, to people in their 90s with such problems as speech impediments from strokes.

Fees, which are nominal, make up only one-third of the operating budget, Dr. England revealed, the rest coming from community and private support. One generous donor contributed $100,000 for remodeling the building and for electronic equipment.

Many patients at the Institute are served in groups the doctor explained. They gather in a "living room situation" and try to relax over coffee and cookies.

VARIED PROBLEMS

Dr. England played a tape recording of two patients, one a teacher with a throat problem, whose voice indicated tension and strain. The other was of a brilliant boy who stuttered, an A student and top athlete.

Stuttering is generally caused, he said, by one of three things: an emotional problem, brain injury, often it is a learned habit, which can be "unlearned."

Valuable treatment often is to take them away from their environment for a time. This is the reason a camp was started in Arizona where such patients can spend eight weeks in a new and healthful environment.

One out of every seven people have speech or hearing problems. With about 300,000 people in the three-county area (Monterey, Santa Cruz and San Benito counties) served by the Institute, the size of the problem can be appreciated.

Dr. England earned degrees from the University of Minnesota and Northwestern University, and served on their staffs. He was head of the University of Arizona's Speech and Hearing Center for four years, then moved to the faculty of Stanford University, before assuming his present post as director of the Institute. He was introduced by Kiwanian Byford Ford.

Rex White, who was recently elected president, presided at the meeting, urged a good turnout for the Kiwanis installation dinner Saturday night Dec. 4 at Las Laureles Lodge. Judge Ray Baugh will MC the program, which will feature Lt. Gov. Frank Heiner as installing officer.

He also asked for volunteers to man the Santa Claus booth in the Village, as requested by Chairman Mrs. Les Jewett.

Second concert of County Symphony's 20th year dedicated to old friends

In tempo with the coming season of Christmas, the second concert of the Monterey County Symphony Orchestra's 20th anniversary season, will be dedicated to friends of the past two decades whose talent has made possible the county-wide orchestra and Youth Orchestra of today. The concerts will be held at Salinas High Auditorium, Monday December 6, and Sunset Auditorium in Carmel, Tuesday, December 7, at 8:30 p.m.

Program innovations, on stage and in the audience will be features of the gala program, paying tribute to the Symphony's early conductors and instrumentalists.

Lorell McCann of Salinas, dean of the orchestra in continuous years of service, as conductor, 1941 through 1954 and a member of the orchestra's ensemble (viola or violin sections) ever since, will be introduced by Conductor John Gosling. He alternated on the podium during the first season, 1941, with Keith McKillop and Robert Nagler of Salinas, Harold Bartlett of Carmel and Franklin Young of Monterey, all of whom will be honored.

Travelling from Fort Bragg will be conductor Clifford Anderson who alternated on the podium with Lorell McCann, 1957 to 1964. Mr. Anderson has just returned from Djarkarta, Indonesia, where, representing the U. S. Cultural Exchange program, he conducted the native Indonesian Symphony.

During the concert in Salinas High School Auditorium on Monday evening Mr. Gosling will invite Maestro Lorell McCann to conduct Purcell's "Trumpet Voluntary." In Carmel's Sunset Auditorium the Purcell composition will be conducted by Clifford Anderson.

Soloist will be soprano Alma Bonner whose performances on the concert platform, on radio and in opera have won nationwide acclaim.

Miss Bonner will be heard on Monday and Tuesday evenings in the West coast premiere of Serge de Gastyne's "Bouquet d'Algues, Op. 31, dedicated by the composer to Mrs. John F. Kennedy. For her second appearance she has chosen Four Last Songs by Strauss.

During the festive evenings instrumentalists in today's symphony who have been with the ensemble since its earliest days will also be honored.

"Affairs of Anatol" at White Oaks

Actress Corliss Nickerson designed the costumes, too

White Oaks Theatre's Corliss Nickerson is more than the ostentatious but endearing Anni who tromps into "Affairs of Anatol" at the onset of Act II and gorges herself with oysters and Champagne. She receives far more prominent program billing as costume designer for the production.

Familiar with "Anatol" from work on the play while at the University of Montana where she portrayed Bibi (Carmel Valley's Toni Brandt in the local presentation) and worked as assistant in the costume room, Corliss was granted her special wish by White Oaks artistic director Gale Peterson when she arrived at the theatre last September. She was given free leeway to design and execute the "building" of gowns for the show.

"It's 1901 when fashion was tight knees, full bosoms, and wasp-waists corseted beyond belief. I've taken this style of the period and exaggerated it in order to reinforce the atmosphere — not only turn-of-the-century Vienna, but of the romantic world of the roguish Anatol." Corliss has commented.

Her eventual aims go more in the direction of acting than designing, but working scholarship she has here earned her education as actress while she labors as costumer.

"And the two are so close, if you think about it. That's the wonderful thing about theatre. There's a merging together of the imaginations of director, actor, designer, whoever. They all activate their creativity toward the common goal of making the playwright's work into seeable reality. That's why on stage I try my best to become the image of a woman like Anni. So too, a design I create becomes the type of gown she would have loved wearing to Sacher's Restaurant in old Vienna for her 'Farewell Supper' with Anatol."

The next job on Miss Nickerson's agenda is to design and execute the costumes ranging from the 1890's to 1930's for the White Oaks forthcoming production of John Dos Passos' "USA."

characterizations.

Gertrude Chappell, as Miss Prism, perhaps overplayed the accent a trifle to the detriment of projection, but her manner and interpretation brings many a chuckle during the evening.

The tall, beautifully postured Layne Littlepage as Gwendolyn is outstanding. The tea scene played with the other "fiancee of Earnest, Cecily, portrayed by Shawn Guild, is frankly one of the funniest things this reviewer has seen on a Peninsula stage in quite awhile.

Both Sean Tracey playing John Worthing (Earnest) and Keith Decker as his friend Algernon are mischievous men about town, with Algie particularly following this role in his use of "bumpering" and rusefully pursuing Cecily. Again they are not real, nor were they meant to be. They are lovely caricatures of characters.

The servant in the country house on opening night used his most expressive face to break up the entire audience. As a matter of fact, both of the opening night servants were outstanding in their humor.

The directing of Michael Keller deserved expanded kudos.

Ruth Jordan Allan's sets of the upper class English parlor, country garden and wealthy bachelors flat lend a fine real background to a play of unreal-

Beautiful Kona Plantation resort in Hawaii is dream come true

Joint venture (adventure) of local people

(EDITOR'S NOTE: After his recent Navy "orientation" cruise on the U.S.S. Kitty Hawk with a press group to Pearl Harbor, Publisher Bill Norton, who was joined by his wife in Hawaii, enjoyed three days at the Kona Plantation, the handsome new resort on the big island of Hawaii, developed by a group of Carmel, Carmel Valley and other Monterey Peninsulans. Here is their report on the Kona Plantation.)

Perhaps it is not surprising that an idea born in the Carmel area should have blossomed so beautifully in another area of rare charm, the black lava coast of the big island of Hawaii. For the Kona Plantation, which began in the minds of Pat and June North of Carmel, is a uniquely and delightfully different resort.

The lava hill up which the 20 redwood cottages are scattered has been landscaped with a variety of exotic native plants and 200 coconut palms. Their skillful arrangement, plus the stimulus of the tropical climate, have combined to produce a luxuriant, natural setting, even though the resort was completed only last spring.

GENEROUS SPACING

Just taking over as managers were Ellen and Walt Stuefloten, former Carmel Valleyites and part owners. It was surprising to learn that they had never been in the resort business before; their pleasant friendliness and enthusiasm for Hawaii made them a delightful host and hostess.

The cottages of Kona Plantation are generously spaced to assure privacy. "People have asked why we didn't put more units on the property, which most developers would have done," Ellen Stuefloten said. "Well, the affect -- the restfulness and the beauty of the place -- just wouldn't have been here."

Quality of construction and the painstaking care with details are evident. "That's thanks to Pat North, who designed the buildings and personally supervised construction," explained Walt Stuefloten, who with North have been veteran Monterey Peninsula builders.

Walt told about the reaction of an architect who had recently stayed there. "This fellow enjoyed making sketches to see how he could improve a place. He made a lot of drawings of our basic cottage, and finally gave up, saying he couldn't improve on the use of the nearly 1,000 feet in each."

Of natural wood inside and out, each cottage includes a screened porch, a spacious living room-dining area with a streamlined kitchen unit, a sleeping area with two king-size beds and attractive dressing room--bath with an unusually spacious tile shower. Sliding louvered panels invite the gentle breezes and white floors contribute to the comfortable coolness.

Decorating know-how and above-average cost went into the handsome teak furniture and soft rugs. Their selection was the result of much research by Dorothy North and Ellen Stuefloten, with the cooperation of James Aldrich, A.I.D. of Oakland.

CARS PROVIDED

A plus-extra for guests is the fleet of Rambler sedans, the use of which is included. A car is a valuable added attraction to explore the fascinating island.

There's also a central cabana and bar, presided over by a queenly Hawaiian lady, Daisy, who likes to mix her tall rum specialty.

Kona Plantation is about two blocks from the unspoiled village of Lailua and only a little further from the airport. It overlooks the spectacularly blue Pacific and the small harbor, where sport-fishing boats base. Kona Plantation is the exclusive agent for the beautiful fishing boat, "Goodbye Charlie," owned by Richard Boone, the actor, and his wife. Some of the biggest marlin in the world are caught off the famous Kona coast of Hawaii.

For dining out, nearby are several larger hotels and several smaller restaurants in the village.

The idea of a resort like the Kona Plantation had been brewing for a long time in the minds of the Norths, who had explored the Islands during several trips to find the ideal location.

Because everything moves leisurely in Hawaii, it took time to negotiate purchase of the four and a half acre site from an old Hawaiian family. Appreciating the importance of local support, the Norths welcomed the services of Joe Hahananui, the local "kahuna" or spiritual leader. He blessed the land and asked permission of his ancestors, whose bones were buried there, "for these strangers to disturb our land."

The Norths were assisted in initial construction by Bruce Harris of Monterey, who with his wife Elizabeth and a crew of three sailed their 47-foot schooner "Altura" from Monterey to Kona in 15 days. Anchored in Keahou Bay, the schooner was their home for the summer.

Kona Plantation is a fun-project for its group of local investors. They include the Norths (Pat is president), Mr. and Mrs. J.O. Handley, (he is vicepresident); Ed Francis, secretary-treasurer; the Stueflotens, Col. and Mrs. John Tracey, Dr. and Mrs. John Gratiot, Charles Gratiot, Rod McArthur, Messrs. and Meses. Mark Raggett, Hugh Davy, Stan Segali, Charles French, Robert McGinnis, Larry Carlsen, Marshall Messenger, J. D. Williamson, J. Roger Deas and Mrs. Frances Davis.

HUGE HIBISCUS BLOSSOMS at Kona Plantation are displayed by Ellen Stuefloten, manager with her husband, Walt, of the beautiful new resort. They are former Carmel Valleyites, who are enjoying the challenge and adventure of operating the resort, which they own with a group of area people.

GENEROUSLY SPACED, the 20 cottages of the new Kona Plantation resort of the big island of Hawaii have a pleasant Japanese feeling and are designed for privacy. The resort is owned by a group of Carmel, Carmel Valley and other Monterey Peninsula residents.

THE GOOD LIFE around the large swimming pool at Kona Plantation is enjoyed here by Walt Stuefloten, who has just moved from Carmel Valley with his wife Ellen to take over the managership, and by Ed Francis, Monterey accountant, who is secretary-treasurer of the resort corporation. The pool adjoins the cabana and bar area, which is next to the managers' apartment.

Kennel Club show Sunday

The Winter All-Breed Match, sponsored by the Del Monte Kennel Club, will be held on December 5 at the Monterey County Fairgrounds. Entries for the event, which is sanctioned by the American Kennel Club, will be taken at the match from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. Entry fees are $2.50. Judging will start at 12:30 p.m.

The match, which is an annual affair, differs from those of previous years by a first time inclusion of "junior dogs" (those 12 to 24 months of age). The usual categories of 3 to 12 month puppies as well as all-age obedience and junior showmanship are also included.

Among the outstanding judges who will be present is Mr. O. Carley Harriman of Pebble Beach who is one of the few "All-Breed" AKC licensed judges in the country. Mr. Harriman will be judging Best in Match for "junior dogs." Best in Match for puppies will be judged by Lt. Col. J. K. Arima of Carmel, according to show chairman Dr. William Crawford.

There is no admission charge for spectators at the show.

Fire Dept. Auxiliary giving away 26" doll

The Christmas doll and wardrobe, annually raffled off by the Auxiliary of the Carmel Valley Volunteer Fire Department is always a coveted gift. Every Valley girl crosses her fingers for weeks before the drawing and hopes that hers will be the lucky number drawn. The winner will be chosen on December 19 at the annual Fire Department family party.

This year's doll is a 26 inch walking baby, accompanied by an extensive 9 month sized wardrobe and a cart which can be converted to a bed or playpen.

Tickets on the doll and wardrobe are 25¢ each or five for $1 and may be purchased from Village Merchants or from any Auxiliary member.

Proceeds from the ticket sales are given to Children's House as a Christmas gift. The doll travels throughout the Village area for viewing at various shops. This week she is making her home at Joanne's Boutique and Joanne's Sportswear.

Carmel High students sell bonds for exchange student

Carmel High students are enthusiastic about the idea of a foreign exchange student living in the community during the next school year. The project is sponsored by the Carmel chapter of the American Field Services.

To give further financial aid to the plan, students are selling "Friendship Bonds" at 25¢ each with the proceeds going to AFS. These bonds are on sale at the school bookstore and through individual students. Jinks Snow and Bob Hicks are student chairmen of the bond sales.

Mrs. John Hicks is the home chairman of the AFS and is checking names of possible families who are interested in having the high school student live with them during the year.

It has been a number of years since there was any Carmel participation in the AFS exchange program. In 1954, Mrs. Richard Sippel was a summer exchange student in Germany and as president of the Carmel chapter of the American Field Services, she is lending her enthusiastic support of the project.

Lionettes hear former FBI agent

Mrs. Tony August was hostess for the November dinner meeting of the Carmel Valley Lionettes held at the Carmel Valley Inn. Dried floral arrangements with tiny pilgrims and turkeys set the Thanksgiving theme in the Garden Room.

A guest, Sherry August, helped the fifteen attending members celebrate the birthdays of Mrs. Ray Meyers and Mrs. Milton Frumkin. The door prize was awarded to Mrs. Lloyd Todd.

A total of $95 was gleaned from the dinner catered for the Lions Club and the Bake Sale. So many requests have been received for recipes of baked goods which were purchased that the club has decided to sell copies for $15 each with proceeds going into the project fund.

Former FBI agent, Thomas Duncan, who had served with the U. S. Customs Service was introduced as the guest speaker. At the conclusion of his talk entitled "Smuggling," Lionettes planning excursions abroad decided that honesty was definitely the best policy!

The Lionettes and their husbands planned a Christmas tree decorating party November 30 when the beautiful tree purchased by the organization last year as their gift to the Community Center was to be brought from storage and trimmed for the enjoyment of the many parties planned at the Center throughout the holidays.

MPC group aids retarded tots

An "old oak leaf cluster" to the members of SINAWIK who gave such valuable assistance as volunteer collectors in the current Valley fund drive for mentally retarded children. The organization made up of young women who are enrolled at Monterey Peninsula College was formed a year ago as an affiliate of the Circle K, a boy's service club. Miss Grace Donlan is adviser assisted by Miss Joan Hansen. Pledging their service to school and community, the group have already donated many hours toward the on-campus bloodmobile, sponsored dances and worked at game concessions, assisted with the Leukemia Fund Drive and won honors on a recently decorated Homecoming Float. Their decision to sponsor a mentally retarded child prompted them to help with the door to door collection. Members of this terrific group of young people include Sherry Hann, Virginia Marino, Barbara Lord, Francis Matsuso, Janice Gota, Lyn Lambarchini, Barbara Thompsen, Sandy Dowden, Liz Issacow, Betty Burgess, Sharden Malloway, Joanne Moss, Karen Culler, Jackie Cooley, Joy Powers, Marty Devine, Gracey Turlos, Georganne de Marest, Susanne Baker, Sue Sparolina, Claudia Krebs, Jody Travote, Karen Owen, Janice Sera, Kathy Ronnse, Pam Lebin, Claudi Rivera, Kathy Ramos, Linda Glexner, and Stephanie McCann. Officers are Gay Powers, president; Kathy McGaughy, vice president; Nancy Machado, secretary; Jane Sousa, treasurer; I. C. C. CV Garden Club Christmas party, installation set

The annual Christmas party held by the Carmel Valley Garden Association will be held Saturday, December 4, at the Community Center. Early reservations have been requested by Lyn Sims, chairman for the 6:30 dinner. The men have the job of preparing and serving the meal. Reservations may be made by calling Mr. Sims at 659-4240, or with Sal Mehdy, president of the Garden Association at 659-2058.

According to murmurings from the Garden Club members, the ladies are really looking forward to this terrific treat of not preparing the dinner themselves!

New officers will also be installed at the dinner meeting as well as a hearty welcome given to new members, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Skadan, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hoag, O.M. Pick and John Dryden.

The bride-elect is sister of Patricia (Patsy) who is presently at Carmel High, and the granddaughter of the Frank B. Porters, of Terrace Way, Carmel Valley, and Charles Haddon Manners and the late Dellberta Manners of Piedmont.

The future bridegroom has one brother, Arthur, who lives in Palm Springs. He is the grandson of the late Arthur S. Eldridges of Seattle and the late Sumner Graffs of Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania.

Lin attended the Harvard School in Los Angeles and is a graduate of University of Washington where he was a member of Psi Upsilon fraternity.

Nancy and Lin will be married in June at Carmel and will live in Palm Springs after the wedding.

Record growth for Security National; merger application with UCB filed William A. Burkett, chairman of the board and president of Security National Bank of Monterey County, announced today that a new record growth for the bank.

Gross income for 1965 will exceed one million dollars for the first time in the bank's 76 year history. Deposits have increased to $17,347,460.07, representing a growth of 38% since December 31, 1964.

Burkett said that the bank's million dollar gross earnings totaled 670% more than when he purchased the bank in April, 1961. He also pointed out that the bank's loan losses were less than one one-hundredths of one percent, one of the lowest loss records in the state.

The formalized application for merger of Security National was filed this week in San Francisco by the United California Bank with the state superintendent of banks and the Federal Reserve Board. Burkett said that final governmental approval is not expected before March or April, 1966.

The United California Bank announced that all of the bank's officers and personnel will be retained. Burkett said that his health necessitated his retirement, but that he has agreed to remain as part-time consultant for U.C.B. for the next ten years, and will continue to reside in Pebble Beach.

Letter to the Editor

EDITOR--Mark Twain once said that mankind had one chance left for survival. He hoped that man would learn to look at himself and laugh at his faults and "by laughing at them, destroy them."

Today I got a letter from home in which was enclosed a clipping from the Carmel Valley Outlook about wearing granny dresses to school. Mrs. Swan and the paper upheld Nina and her inappropriate costume against Miss Wright's judgment.

It seems terribly funny to me that your paper should print and take sides on such a petty issue and I am surprised that you should deliberately attempt to embarrass any person who has done her job in such a competent manner for such a long time.

I attended Carmel High for three years and during that time I had numerous experiences with Miss Wright. She has dedicated many years to trying to help teenagers and last year and the two preceding, I found her always ready to help me with problems that I couldn't find solutions for elsewhere. I'd also like to say that I have never heard her raise her voice unless she had cause to do so.

I wonder how you can dare to denounce, for such an unimportant reason, a woman who has done her part in trying to make the world a better place, on one family's obviously prejudiced statement.

I believe in freedom of the press but I think the press should find more evidence before they commit themselves to such a silly position.

Janis Jones
Humboldt State College

Dear Jan: Sometimes a newspaper also has to help put things in proper perspective. The Outlook did not uphold either position but published the letter because there was a great deal of discussion pro and con going

Organ concert at Baptist Church

A concert by G. Thomas Hazelton, organist at St. Andrews Church in Saratoga, will be presented at the Carmel Valley First Baptist Church on Sunday, December 5, at 3:15 p.m. Mr. Hazelton is well known for his recitals throughout the United States as well as in the Bay area. He has also played at the convention of the American Guild of Organists and the 1965 recital series at Grace Cathedral in San Francisco.

A wide variety of selections will be presented to fully utilize the mammoth new organ at the Baptist Church. Mr. Hazelton's program will include "Concerto No. 5 in F Major" by Handel, "Piece Heroique" by Franck, "Scherzo" by Louis Vierne, "Toccata in F Major" and "Now Thank We All Our God" by Bach.

A religious art display will be on exhibit from 3 to 5 p.m. in conjunction with the concert.

At 7:30 p.m., the same day, there will be a vocal concert by baritone Lyle Richardson, the musical director of Westminster Presbyterian Church in San Jose. His program will be announced.

UNICEF cards available here

The Postmaster General's office has given the United States Committee for UNICEF authorization to place posters and conduct sales of UNICEF greeting cards in local post office lobby space.

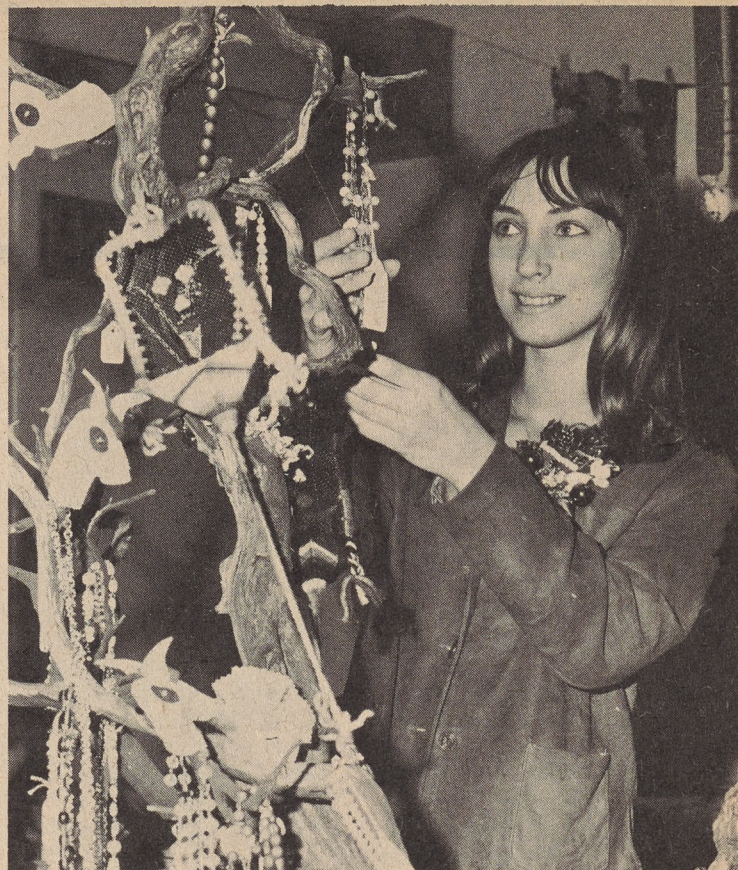

Posters have been placed on the bulletin board of the Carmel Valley Post Office, but postmaster Sam Brandt felt our lobby space too limited to set up a table. Therefore, greeting card sales are being taken care of by Mrs. Lou Gardner at Blue Sky Lodge.

A varied selection of greeting cards and notes are available and inquiries may be phoned to Marge Gardner at 659-2935.

Sorority group meets

The Pi Beta Phi Alumni group of the Monterey Peninsula will hold their December meeting at the Carmel Golf and Country Club. Luncheon will be served at 1 p.m. on Saturday, December 4.

For further information and reservations all Pi Phis who have not already planned for the meeting should call president Marty Miller at 624-5067. Newcomers to the Valley and Peninsula are welcome.
